Peptide Therapy

Unlock your body's cellular potential with targeted peptide protocols.

BPC-157 (Body Protection Compound-157):

A peptide often used for its healing and recovery properties, particularly for tissue repair and injury recovery. Dosing varies based on individual needs.

CJC-1295 + Ipamorelin:

A popular peptide stack used to stimulate growth hormone (GH) release. Used for potential benefits in enhancing muscle growth, fat loss, and improving recovery times.

GHK-Cu (Copper Peptide):

A naturally occurring peptide known for skin and wound healing. Promotes tissue repair, stimulates collagen production, and has anti-inflammatory effects.

NAD+ (Nicotinamide Adenine Dinucleotide):

A crucial coenzyme for energy production, cellular repair, and overall metabolic function. Used for energy, mental clarity, and anti-aging benefits.
